Matthew S. Tejada is the Director of Environmental Justice at EPA. As Director, Matthew leads the Environmental Justice program’s cross-cutting work throughout the EPA and federal government. This includes working with communities, other EPA divisions, federal agencies, academic partners, business and industry, and state, local and tribal partners to further the mission of the EPA and its efforts to further Environmental Justice.

Before his career at EPA, Matthew was the Executive Director of the environmental advocacy Air Alliance Houston, which was centrally involved in local, state and federal level legislative and policy formation as regards environmental and public health issues. Matthew received his Doctorate and Master’s degrees from the University of Oxford. Matthew received a BA in English from the University of Texas at Austin, he also served two years in the Peace Corps and is native of Ft. Worth, Texas.